This early work by Lucy Maud Montgomery was originally published in 1931 and we are now republishing it with a brand new introductory biography. 'A Tangled Web' is a tale that follows a family through a year of heartbreak and hilarity in a scramble to acquire a family heirloom. Lucy Maud Montgomery was born on 30th November 1874, New London, in the Canadian province of Prince Edward Island. Her mother, Clara Woolner (Macneil), died before Lucy reached the age of two and so she was raised by her maternal grandparents in a family of wealthy Scottish immigrants. In 1908 Montgomery produced her first full-length novel, titled 'Anne of Green Gables'. It was an instant success, and following it up with several sequels, Montgomery became a regular on the best-seller list and an international household name. Montgomery died in Toronto on 24th April 1942.

Witty and brilliant.

If you are expecting the usual L.M. Montgomery story with feisty young girls having adventures and meeting boys etc, you will be disappointed in this book. If you, on the other hand, can free youself from this expectation, you are in for a treat. The story is about a coveted heirloom, the Dark jug. The head of the Dark and Penhallow clans, Aunt Becky, dies, and leaves everyone wondering who will inherit the Dark jug. However, her will stipulates that no one will know until a year after her death. This year brings about many changes in the clan, and the story follows several clan members, irrespective of wether they want the jug or not. At times it is touching, at times it is wickedly funny.

My only caveat is that if you have problems with pet cats being killed, you might struggle a bit with one of the last chapters.
